

The stockholders were considered men of considerable worth, and honorable among the best in the community.

It was said the Ed Hall, one of the stockholders, sold 40 acres of ground near Bible Grove to make up money lost in the theft. Another stockholder, Ed Sunderman, took bankruptcy.

Indictments were brought against Richard Falley March 10, 1926, in Circuit Court. Since his whereabouts were never found, in December of 1928 a list of citizens, taxpayers, despositors and officers of the Bible Grove State Bank, signed a petition to have the indictments then pending against Falley, be declared null and void and dismissed as no good purpose was thought to be served by keeping the said indictments on the docket. The bank had closed its doors in 1927.

OLIVER KEPLEY RESTAURANT

back row L to R - Leslie Lacoax, Alfred Specht, Arthur Deitz, Arlie Webster, Garland Murvin, Barrett Burns, Gould Murvin, Claude Colborn, Otto Hardin, Oliver Kepley, and Richard Falley

middle row - Harve Cotterell, Bruno Sturtivant, Roscoe Crum, Charlie Monical, Tony Lyons, Russell Colborn, McKinley Burns, Emmett Fender. Two youngest in front are Ruth and Raymond Kepley.